WHITEAWAY'S

SANK U-BOAT—RESCUED CREW

THESE pictures were taken by a British seaman as his ship sank one of Germany's biggest submarines, the U-39—and saved most of her crew. In the picture above you see the British whalers circling the oil-patch that marks the submarine's grave, picking up survivors as they appear. Below, British bluejackets are doing their best to entertain their Nazi guests on the way back to port.

Here is the U-boat's last appearance in the sunlight. Her conning-tower shows black against the silver sea.

Fusiliers Trapped German Patrol

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—"Reuter's" special correspondent with the B.E.F. writes:

"I am now able to reveal that the Lancashire Fusiliers were the heroes of the fight in No Man's Land on March 20.

"Unsupported by the barrage of gunfire, trench mortar, bombs and machine gun bullets similar to that which recently enabled an overwhelmingly superior enemy force to attack an outpost held by the Duke of Cornwall's Light Infantry, the Fusiliers climbed a parapet of sandbags and advanced silently in the clear moonlight.

"A German patrol was expected and an ambush was prepared.

Walked Into Trap

"A tense period of waiting followed, in which a single cough would have betrayed the Fusiliers, but the Germans walked right into the trap.

"A fierce individual test of courage, initiative and skill followed, resulting in five Germans being killed and one captured, while the British suffered no casualties."

An official communique issued from British Headquarters regarding this incident stated: A British patrol had a very successful encounter with an enemy patrol, and a sharp fight ensued. Five of the enemy were killed and one was captured. Our troops suffered no casualties.

MINE STRIKES DUTCH SHIP

Vessel Manages To Keep Afloat

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—Salvage tugs towed into port today the Dutch motor vessel, Phobos, 7,412 tons, which ran into a mine east of Heligoland on March 20.

The Phobos was carrying crude oil to Holland from the West Indies. The coxswain of a lifeboat which had been standing by the ship, stated that the sea all around was covered inches deep with black oil which was pouring from a huge hole in the side of the ship.

He added it is a marvel that the ship remained afloat. The salvage crew and divers worked day and night to effect temporary repairs.

Mr. S. M. White, Honorary Secretary of the Kowloon Bowling Green Club, is leaving for home on transfer next week. A presentation is to be made to him in the Club house at 6.30 this evening.

ADMIRALTY DESCRIBE—

ATTACK ON CONVOY

How Nazi Planes Were Beaten Off

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—An Admiralty announcement issued to-day states that three naval aircraft, which were forming part of a convoy escort on March 20, encountered ten Heinkel bombers who immediately commenced unloading their bombs while climbing to shelter in the clouds.

The leading British machine followed and fired until all the ammunition was expended.

Later, several enemy aircraft reappeared and endeavoured to press home their attack on the convoy.

One Repulses Four

However, one naval machine, piloted by a petty officer, drove off four enemy machines.

Later three other naval aircraft saw an enemy aircraft machine-gunning a merchant ship. One British machine which was unobserved climbed above the enemy aircraft and attacked the raider from only 50 yards distance. He fired short bursts with good effect until the oil pouring from the German machine covered the British machine's windscreen.

The German plane was last seen climbing slowly with the undercarriage hanging down.

The Admiralty announcement adds that there seems to be no doubt that this was the machine which was

NAZI SHIP TORPEDOED

British Craft Shows The Legal Method

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, March 22 (UP).—While U-boats have increased their attacks on neutral ships, torpedoing six and possibly seven without warning in the past 48 hours with a death toll of 46 and the fate of three ships unknown, a British submarine to-day braved the Kattegat shallows and sank the German steamer Hedderheim which was carrying a shipment of Swedish iron ore to Germany.

This is the first instance so far of a British submarine sinking a German merchantman in the war.

How Hedderheim Was Sunk
SEAGEN, NORTH JUTLAND, Mar. 22 (UP).—Twenty-six members of the crew of the German ship Hedderheim (5,000 tons) left here for Germany this afternoon after describing the torpedoing of their ship by a British submarine last night.

They declared that the submarine gave them fifteen minutes to man their lifeboat and to row a short distance from the ship, after which the submarine launched a torpedo and sank the Hedderheim.

Unconfirmed reports state that the Hedderheim was carrying a cargo of iron ore.

The German crew said the English commander demanded the Hedderheim's captain to be handed over.

Alice Faye Charges
"Tony Was Cruel"

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

HOLLYWOOD, Mar. 22 (UP).—Miss Alice Faye, the film star, to-day obtained a divorce from her film actor husband Tony Martin who did not contest charges of cruelty.

Alice Faye, who was at one time a singer in Rudy Vallee's orchestra, has become a famous film star during the past three years.

She has appeared in many musical films including "Alexander's Ragtime Band" and "In Old Chicago." Her latest film to be shown in Hongkong was "Tail Spin."

Tony Martin is also a popular singing star. He appeared recently with the Ritz Brothers in "Kentucky Moonshine."

H.K.N.V.F. NOTES

Acting Sub-Lt. A. B. Palmer has relinquished his commission in the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

Mr. G. C. Dudley has been appointed Acting Lieutenant in the Hongkong Naval Volunteer Force.

In to-day's issue of the "Government Gazette" Mr. W. J. Currie, Controller of Food, has announced the change in price of rolled oats and oatmeal. A 2lb. tin of C. & B. oatmeal is priced at $1.37.

Tokyo Charge Against
News Correspondent

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

TOKYO, Mar. 22 (UP).—Mr. James R. Young, Far Eastern correspondent of the International News Service, was sentenced to six months' imprisonment "for fabricating and distributing false rumours."

Execution of the sentence will be suspended and Young will be bound over to be of good behaviour for three years.

Young Released

He was sentenced by the Presiding Judge Senchiro Hotta at the Tokyo District Court.

The newsman was later released, neither the Procurator nor the counsel for the defence appealing.

Afterwards Mrs. Young told the United Press: "We are very much satisfied with the sentence. We intend to stay in Japan indefinitely."

U-BOATS SCARED

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—Since

British merchant ships have been armed the number of even partially successful attacks by the Nazis has fallen considerably.

Nazi aeroplanes and submarines have been devoting their chief attention to unarmed neutral ships and small fishing boats.

It is significant that not one of the seven ships sunk within the past two days was in convoy.

Neutral Ships Sunk
Without Warning

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"

LONDON, Mar. 22 (UP).—Admiralty announces that U-boats have sunk the Danish ships Christiansborg (3,270 tons) and Charkow (1,206 tons)—the seventh neutral and fifth Danish vessels sunk in two days.

Other neutral ships sunk in the past two days were the Bothal, Viking, Minsk, Algiers and Svinta, none of which was convoyed.

Eleven officers and 49 men of an unidentified German vessel, under the escort of an armed merchant cruiser, were landed at a Scottish port to-day and detained for an internment camp.

A British trawler docking for repairs to-day claimed that she machine-gunned and possibly brought down a German bombing plane off the north coast of Scotland on Wednesday night, after the plane had dropped six bombs, all of which missed their mark.

U-Boat, Depredation

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—German U-boats have been busy at their usual brave exploit of sinking defenceless neutral merchantmen.

At least six Danish ships and one Norwegian vessel have been sunk during the past two days.

BLOCKADE LEAKAGE

European Neutrals'
Increased Imports

LONDON, Mar. 21

(Reuter).—Allegations of a serious leakage through the Allied blockade were made in the House of Commons to-day by the Liberal member, Mr. Geoffrey Mander, and the Conservative member, Mr. R. J. Boothby on the motion for adjournment.

Mr. Mander complained that agreements with neutrals were apparently made on the basis of re-export trade to Germany on the immediate pre-war scale when Germany was building up her reserves.

He cited European neutrals' import of cotton, which had increased enormously since the war, and said that in January, Russia, through Vladivostok, had imported 200 tons of tin compared with nothing in the same period last year.

Trucks Available

He understood that the Germans were making hundreds of trucks available on that line for transporting material.

Mr. Mander also suggested that something should be done about the Swedish iron ore which was going to Germany through Norwegian waters.

He finally accused Norway and Sweden of breaking the Covenant in refusing British troops permission to pass through their territory to Finland.

Mr. Boothby asserted that there was too much material going to Germany through Trieste and Genoa.

Being Attended To

Mr. R. A. Butler, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, replying to the debate, said that the points raised were having serious attention.

The question of cotton especially was being actively attended to at the moment. Similarly with trade passing through Vladivostok.

Regarding Norway and Sweden's obligations under the Covenant, Mr. Butler recalled that the Scandinavian states at Geneva made every reservation regarding measures coming within the scope of sanctions.

Replying to an interjection by Mr. Boothby, Mr. Butler said: "If we approach neutrals and remind them of the years we have worked together at Geneva, I am sure that it will be most effective, especially if we do it in company."

HONGKONG'S CINEMA GOERS HAVE GROUCH

by "Stage Door"

HONGKONG has a grouch. And it's a reasonable one.

These "road show" prices.

As correspondents so aptly put it, the picture people are quick to raise their prices when a "superlative" film is screened, but they never reduce them when they show trash.

But don't blame the exhibitors. They are as much the victims of the system as the cinema-goers. I don't think any Hongkong exhibitor wants to raise his price.

THE distributors—and they claim they are acting on orders from New York or Hollywood—are the people who say what prices are to be charged for exhibiting their films. If the theatres don't like it they can lump it.

It is one of the inequities of the block-book system, under which theatres are forced to take whatever pictures are offered by the distributor under an annual contract.

Under this system the chaff is not winnowed from the grain. Your loaf of entertainment bread isn't cheaper if it's sour, but it's a darn sight dearer if it's good.

It is only in places like Hongkong that the exhibitors would risk the reputations of their names by permitting the screening of some of the "quackies" we have to pay full prices for.

In the United States itself they don't screen these "quackies" unless they are fill-ups in double feature programmes—and even then you don't have to pay road-show prices even if the second feature is good.

DISTRIBUTORS in Hongkong have the thick end of the stick. When a picture is screened in this Colony they take anything from 40 to 60 per cent. of the admission prices.

The exhibitors have to pay for the upkeep of their theatres and staff, the Entertainment Tax, Property Tax and all the other incidental expenses to the upkeep of a theatre.

The distributors get away with a small office, in which all they have to do is sit back and take the money.

There's nothing much that can be done about it—unless the block booking system is abolished.

If you boycott a theatre showing at roadshow prices, you victimise the people who are not responsible for the system. No matter what happens, the distributor gets his money.

WHAT'S ON

KING'S: "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

QUEEN'S AND ALHAMBRA: "Gulliver's Travels."

MAJESTIC: "Naughty But Nice."

ORIENTAL: "First Love."

TO-MORROW

MAJESTIC: "Golden Boy."

ORIENTAL: "Geronimo."

You'll notice that roadshow prices are becoming increasingly frequent. But you haven't seen anything yet. The distributors have discovered that it's an easy way to increase their profits, and there's several films scheduled for release in the near future which will be advertised at "slightly increased prices."

TO-DAY'S SHOWS

FILM: "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

STARS: James Stewart, Jean Arthur.

VERDICT: First Class Entertainment.

Mr. Deeds, it will be remembered, went to the sophisticated, metropolitan town; Mr. Smith is more exact in his destination.

It is Washington for him, for Washington is the home of America's Parliament.

Mr. Deeds and Mr. Smith have much in common. Both are idealists, both are simple and both find themselves involved with a girl, themselves involved with a girl, themselves involved with a girl.

It is only in places like Hongkong that the exhibitors would risk the reputations of their names by permitting the screening of some of the "quackies" we have to pay full prices for.

FILM: "Gulliver's Travels."

STARS: Fleischer cartoon.

VERDICT: Excellent.

FULL length colour cartoon from Jonathan Swift's story, full of pleasant tunes and comic little men.

Music is the food of strife between two kings in Lilliput and Gulliver propose a musical compromise to settle the war. A new character, Gubby, is introduced.

FILM: "Naughty But Nice."

STARS: Ann Sheridan, Dick Powell.

VERDICT: Good light musical.

FARCE with music about a professor who goes to New York to publish some music and falls into the hands of Tin Pan Alley and a jitterbug aunt.

Amusing, even though it sometimes misses the mark. Ann Sheridan, Dick Powell, Gale Page, Helen Broderick, Ronald Reagan, Allen Jenkins.

FILM: "First Love."

STARS: Deanna Durbin, Eugene Pallette.

VERDICT: Good Family Picture.

DEANNA Durbin and Producer Joe Pasternak going back to the Cinderella story with disarming ingenuity.

They have no trouble at all in convincing audiences that she did meet her Prince Charming. Deanna Durbin sings less than in some of her pictures, but she is developing as an actress, and maintaining her individuality, sincerity, and sense of humour. Helen Parrish, Robert Stack, Mr. Pallette.

FEW albums contain enough the dog, kitten, parrot, or pictures of the family pet—whatever animal companion you have.

However, with a little patience and strategy, such shots are not difficult to get—and they certainly add interest and variety to your picture collection.

For a good picture of the pet, you need a large image—and here is where the portrait attachment comes in. Slip one of these on the camera lens, and you can take pictures with a box camera as near as 3 feet to the subject. Even nearer, if yours is a focusing model and you use the attachment.

Naturally, you'll pick a moment when the pet is quiet. Bait is helpful. For example, saucer milk to tempt the cat. Put the milk in the chosen spot, under your photo lights—place the camera exactly the right distance away from the saucer—and as soon as the pet takes the bait, you're ready to shoot. For shots with photo bulbs of the "flash" type, load camera with high speed film.

FLASH bulbs are often a help in shooting pet pictures.

The picture above is a "flash shot." First, the camera was placed just the right distance from the dog, while he slept under the kitchen stove. The shutter was set for a "time" exposure. Then the photographer turned off the kitchen lights—made a loud noise to awaken the dog—and flashed the flash bulb. Then it was necessary merely to close the shutter and wind the film for the next shot.

Thus, you see, you don't have to have a synchronizer for flash shots, although it's a convenient device. Indoors, you can use the flash bulb in any electric socket. Make sure, of course, that the light switch is in the "off" position before you insert the bulb. For flash pictures, either chrome film or high speed film can be used, but you must have the light at the right distance from the subject.

Pets are excellent subjects for indoor shots—and it would be fun, to make a collection of pictures showing your pet's antics and activities.

No two pictures will be alike—and their interest never wanes. Try it and see.

DIFFICULT YEARS FOR CHILDREN

It's when children start to shoot up suddenly that they need your special attention. Children who are growing fast often tire easily, get pale, listless and do poorly at school.

The trouble is that children have a double job of work to do. They use up energy in work and play and at the same time they are growing!

Doctors and nurses have recommended Horlicks for years for children who need this extra energy. Horlicks moreover builds sturdy bone and muscle. You'll find that paleness disappears, and school-work improves. And the children seem to gain endless energy and "go." Get Horlicks to-day.

ARTICLE for WOMEN

My Friends All Look Muddle-Aged

THERE'S a new vogue. It's the "Why Grow Old?" school.

All my friends are rushing about madly, trying to look eleven years younger. But they don't. They just look middle-aged!

They remind me of a child learning to ride a bicycle. The telegraph-pole looms up ahead. He concentrates desperately on avoiding it. So what happens? He runs right into it and takes a nice spill.

"Forty" is the obstacle that is unseating all my friends. I refuse to let it throw me to forty. I think I've learned how to be forty. I've been watching my friends make asses of themselves. And I've made an important discovery. They are choosing the stupid way to be middle-aged.

They're trying to kid themselves that life begins at forty. It doesn't. But a lot of other things do.

SLOVENLINESS begins at forty. It is indulged in by the woman who no longer has any respect for her husband.

My friend Helen goes about the house in any old thing.

Stockings with runs and dilapidated old bedroom slippers are "good enough" for Hugh.

She doesn't bother to dress for breakfast, her hair is straggly and her nose needs powder. Her negligence is anything but admiration-compelling.

Her husband of eighteen years standing is old stuff. Why put herself out to thrill him?

Helen doesn't know that the age when a woman loses her power to charm is not chronological. It is self-imposed.

Mental fuzziness begins at forty. My friend Jane takes her face to the beauty parlour once a week. She never takes her brains anywhere.

She'd be horrified if her nails weren't lacquered a shiny red.

But it never occurs to her that with will take a little polishing and sharpening.

She is careful to see that her car doesn't run out of oil. Her mind hasn't been lubricated for ages. It's covered with cobwebs and squeaks at every joint.

THE allure of the "other" man and "other" woman begins at forty.

The original romance is considerably tarnished.

My friends the G's have polished their silverware more faithfully than their love.

Now she looks at him and sees only a punch and a bald spot. He looks at her and can find little of the girl she used to be.

So they both look round and see somebody else!

Their early years together should be returning them large dividends in happy companionship. But they have failed to substitute more permanent satisfactions for the ones that are apt to go into a tall spin in the middle years.

I'm not afraid to say "yes" to forty when it rolls round to my doorstep next year. That doesn't mean that I think I have to look like Whistler's Mother.

I can just as well go in for being the tantalising, enigmatic Mona Lisa. She's my idea of forty making good.

With her subtle mystery and untamable smile, she is the quintessence of all that men have ever desired in woman. Hers is not the beauty of the permanent wave and plucked eyebrows. It is the loveliness of thoughts.

Be a charming wife, a charming mother, a charming friend—and the grey hairs will take care of themselves.

Be Creative! It is forty's way of being interesting. That doesn't mean composing an immortal symphony. It may well mean just redecorating the living-room or growing superior roses.

THE satirists say that I still have thirty-two years to live.

I refuse to spend them looking back over my shoulder, like Lot's wife, at what's done and gone; because living in the past makes one old. It's only living adventurously in the present and training one's eyes on the future that keeps one young.

Psychologists have been busy with experiments that prove I'm still just as bright as I was at eighteen. So I can learn Esperanto, or write that novel, or become an authority on Florentine lace.

My cheeks may lack the radiant bloom of sixteen and so I faithfully pursue so relentlessly and so faithfully in beauty parlours. But sixteen's enchantment is largely a sugar coating to hide its emptiness. It is nature's clever ruse to trap a mate for youth at a time when youth has little but bloom to offer.

I don't need it. I've got my man! I mean to be forty intelligently and charmingly enough to keep him!

New French Cabinet Given Vote Of Confidence

REYNAUD WINS AFTER STORMY SESSION

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
PARIS, Mar. 23 (UP).—The Chamber of Deputies to-day passed a vote of confidence in M. Reynaud's Government by the small majority of 268 to 156.

Altogether 111 Deputies abstained from voting which makes the continuation of the new Cabinet uncertain.

Government To Continue
PARIS, Mar. 22 (UP).—It has been officially announced that the new Cabinet under M. Reynaud has decided to continue.

Reynaud's Declaration
PARIS, Mar. 22 (UP).—"France is engaged in a total war to win which means everything but to lose means nothing," declared M. Paul Reynaud in his declaration to the Chamber of Deputies to-day.

"Aided by the treason of the Soviet Union," he said, "we are fighting the enemy on all fields and with a sort of genius for destruction."

"The Government which presents itself before you has no other reason for its existence than to stimulate, concentrate and lead all France's energies into the fight to conquer and crush treason from whichever quarter it may come."

Critical Chamber
PARIS, Mar. 22 (UP).—The New French Premier, M. Paul Reynaud, faced a critical Chamber of Deputies this afternoon when he made a dramatic bid to win a big majority with a brief but powerful ministerial declaration which was qualified by Minister of the Interior, M. Henri Roy, as "an act of faith."

The French Cabinet and Council of Ministers met at the Elysee this morning and unanimously approved the declaration which was read by M. Reynaud in the Chamber and M. Chautemps in the Senate.

Stormy Session
PARIS, Mar. 22 (UP).—The Chamber of Deputies met in the morning for the study at 8.10 p.m. to-day to decide whether to remain in power or resign as outspoken opposition mounted and the Chamber of Deputies gave a cool reception to M. Reynaud's declaration.

After the declaration had been read Radical Socialist Lucien Galmant began opposition questions. He criticised the composition of the Cabinet and the inclusion of such Socialists as M. Blanche and Monet.

The Chamber became very noisy as M. Blanche spoke next. He said the Cabinet is not a Government but a traditional political combination.

Louis Martin, chief of 53 Republic Socialists and other important Rightists announced that he and his friends would unanimously vote against the Government. He warned that Europe may soon see important military developments which will convince M. Reynaud that a War Cabinet is necessary.

Only Wishes To Fight
In his reply before the vote of confidence was taken, M. Reynaud said: "My Government only wishes to fight. I do not have a powerful army. I have only a few soldiers."

He said that a small public safety Cabinet would impose heavy tasks on all ministries, the departments of several men leaving France being left to be governed by thousands of irresponsible Civil servants.

M. Leon Blum defended M. Reynaud.

Ministerial Declaration
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—"To arouse must and direct all the strength of France to fight and win and crush treason from wherever it comes," is the policy of the new Government as expounded in a Ministerial declaration read in the Chamber Senate this afternoon.

A powerful, organised and determined enemy is transforming all human activities into a means of warfare," the declaration continues.

"Helped by Soviet treachery the enemy is carrying the struggles into every sphere and co-ordinating blows with genius for destruction."

"Everything is at stake in this warfare. To win means saving all; to succumb means losing all."

"With your confidence and support we shall accomplish the task."

"Our Admirable Allies"
"If we need further stimulus we need only measure the immense resources of France and the Empire; to consider our admirable Allies; to remember the valour of our people; the labour of our workers and peasants; the strength of our Armies; the ardour of our soldiers and the courage of their commanders."

"We have only, in fact, to think of the eternal genius of France."

When M. Paul Reynaud, the new Premier, sat down after reading this declaration in the Chamber he was applauded although without marked warmth by the Centre and Left.

The Right vigorously applauded his reference to Soviet treachery but otherwise remained unmoved.

M. Reynaud asked for an immediate discussion of the two radical and socialist interpolations and of the general policy.

Reply To Debate
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—In reply to the debate in Chambers, M. Paul Reynaud said: "The security of our nation formerly depended on its army."

"To-day it depends on the entire nation."

"Mistakes which were made in the last war shall not be repeated."

"M. Daladier proved his ability to be economical in human lives." (Applause.)

M. Reynaud continued: "What we owe to the nation is to develop the most modern weapons of war."

"Regarding the foreign policy I can confine myself to a declaration made in secret session by M. Daladier. "It would be a crime in wartime to allow prejudices against individuals to come into play."

"Anything we may have thought or said in the past no longer counts." (This was an allusion to the Right Wing objection to the inclusion of the Socialist member, M. Monnet, in the Cabinet.)

In continuing, M. Reynaud said: "Our only principle in foreign policy is to reply to friendship with friendship, to enmity with enmity."

The declaration was couched in frank terms. We shall not neglect any effort to make the women understand that it is not because of its extreme Left Wing doctrine but because of its organisation of crime.

"The Communists have worked against our country. We shall crush them." (Applause.)

U.S. Press Approval
NEW YORK, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—The Press approves the way in which the change in the French Government is accomplished.

The "New York Times" says that France changed her leadership in a manner that re-affirms French democracy and gives a tonic to the Allied cause.

The "Herald Tribune" says that there is nothing in all this of either defeatism or disillusion.

Reserved Reception
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—While there is nothing but praise for the way in which M. Reynaud formed his Cabinet in just over 40 hours, the Press offers his government a rather reserved reception.

The general tendency is to suspend judgement pending its appearance before Parliament.

It is agreed that M. Reynaud is the right man for the more active policy demanded by both Houses, but there is anxiety that the new Cabinet is a little unwieldy.

Every one is glad that M. Daladier's former policies are back.

France's Precious Heritage
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—"Liberty represents France's precious heritage," added M. Reynaud. "We are with Britain in the camp of freedom. We desire other nations to adhere to the Franco-British alliance."

The Franco-British agreement does not obliterate our sense of Latin solidarity."

M. Reynaud revealed that he told M. Daladier he could not hope for a Government without M. Daladier's support which was then given.

Inclusion of the Socialists in the Cabinet by paying tribute to the patriotism of members of the Socialist Party and asserting that it was necessary to obtain collaboration from all especially the largest party in the Chamber, in order to solve the problems of the war.

As for the argument that there were too many Ministers, M. Reynaud said that when Ministers are overburdened it is the subordinate officials who suffer.

Rumblings Of Discontent
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—The corrected official figures for the Chamber vote of confidence are 268 to 156 with 110 abstentions.

M. Reynaud is still occupying the Government bench in the Chamber.

Despite the severe setback received as the result of the Chamber vote, it is believed in the lobbies that the Government will remain in office.

After the first flush of enthusiasm yesterday at the speedy formation of a new government on a wider Parliamentary basis, rumblings of discontent are heard in political circles.

Many Radicals are dissatisfied with the changes while the Right Wing is furious at the inclusion of Socialists, who alone were really pleased.

Role Of Animator
Concluding his speech before the vote was taken M. Reynaud said, "Our foreign policy tends to create a new type of free peoples."

"The problem of moral strength is as important as that of material strength."

"We must reveal France to herself. The Government will fill the role of animator if the Chamber permits."

M. Reynaud concluded, "It is our will to make a war which will enable us with the least possible delay to obtain the only possible and lasting peace."

"By the vote which you are about to cast you are taking a heavy responsibility in regard to the foreign countries."

Democracy On Trial
This war puts democracy on trial with set laws.

M. Reynaud's speech was greeted with loud applause from the Left.

M. Blum said that the Socialist Party joined the Government without any preliminary arrangement. Socialist co-operation, he said, was given in a disinterested and low spirit in order to provide the country with all the means at its disposal to obtain a just and lasting peace in the shortest possible time with the least possible sacrifice."

Conservative Opposition
PARIS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—M. Louis Marin, leader of the chief Conservative Group who controls about 60 votes, announced that his party would vote unanimously against the Government.

M. Calimand, the Radical Socialist deputy, bitterly criticised M. Reynaud and the Government. "France has been awaiting a War Cabinet," he

Submarines To Carry Cargo

Russia And Germany May Develop Idea

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Mar. 22 (UP).—Some naval architects predict that the next stage of the war will be marked by the appearance of large cargo-carrying Russian and German submarines designed to out-wit the Allied blockade.

This is based chiefly on the fact that Russia, early last year, is known to have completed specifications for large cargo-submarines, capable of carrying several tons of merchandise under the Arctic ice cap from Siberia to Murransk.

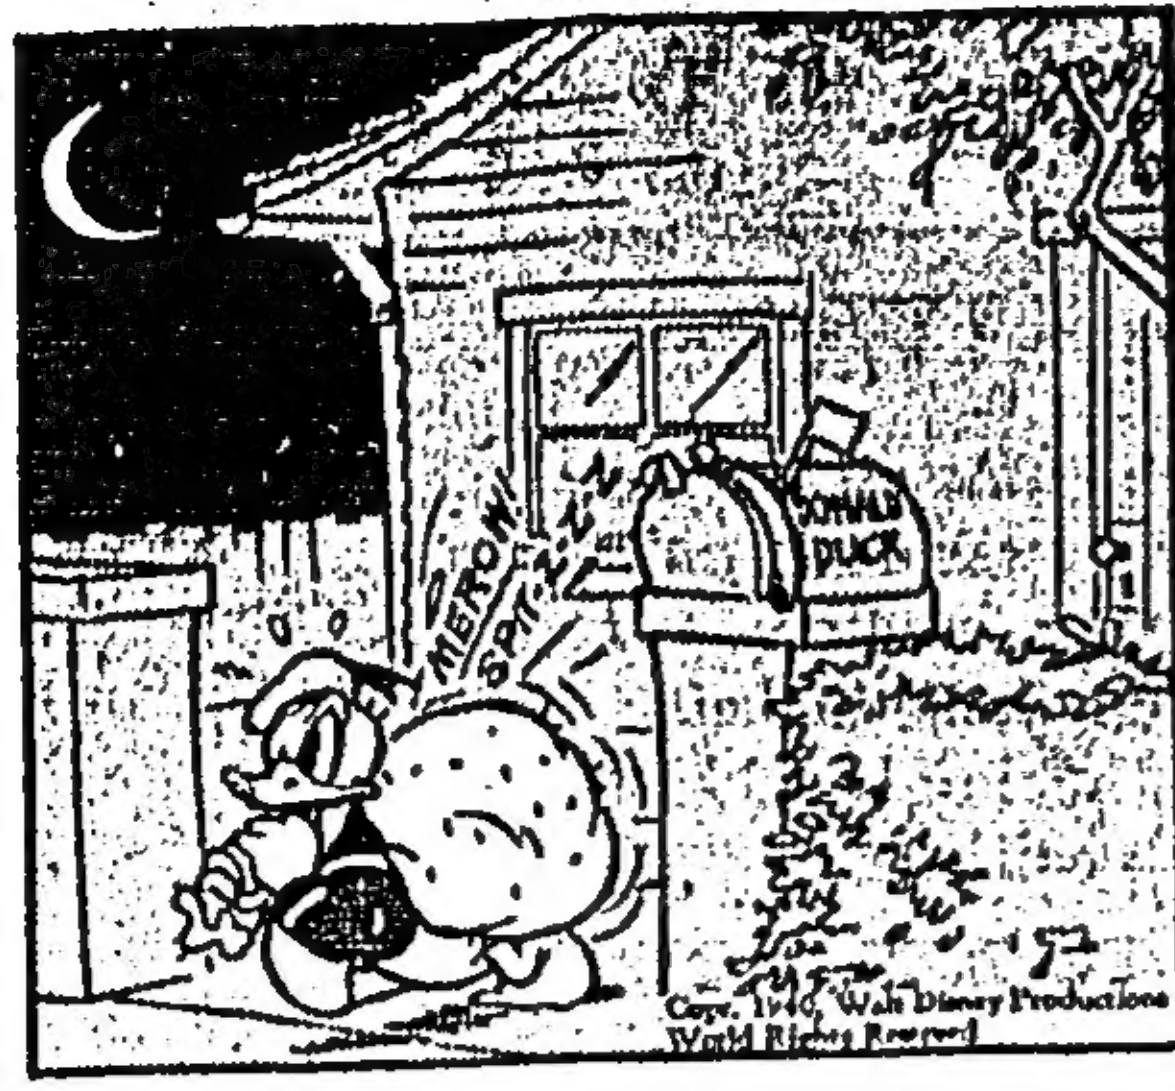

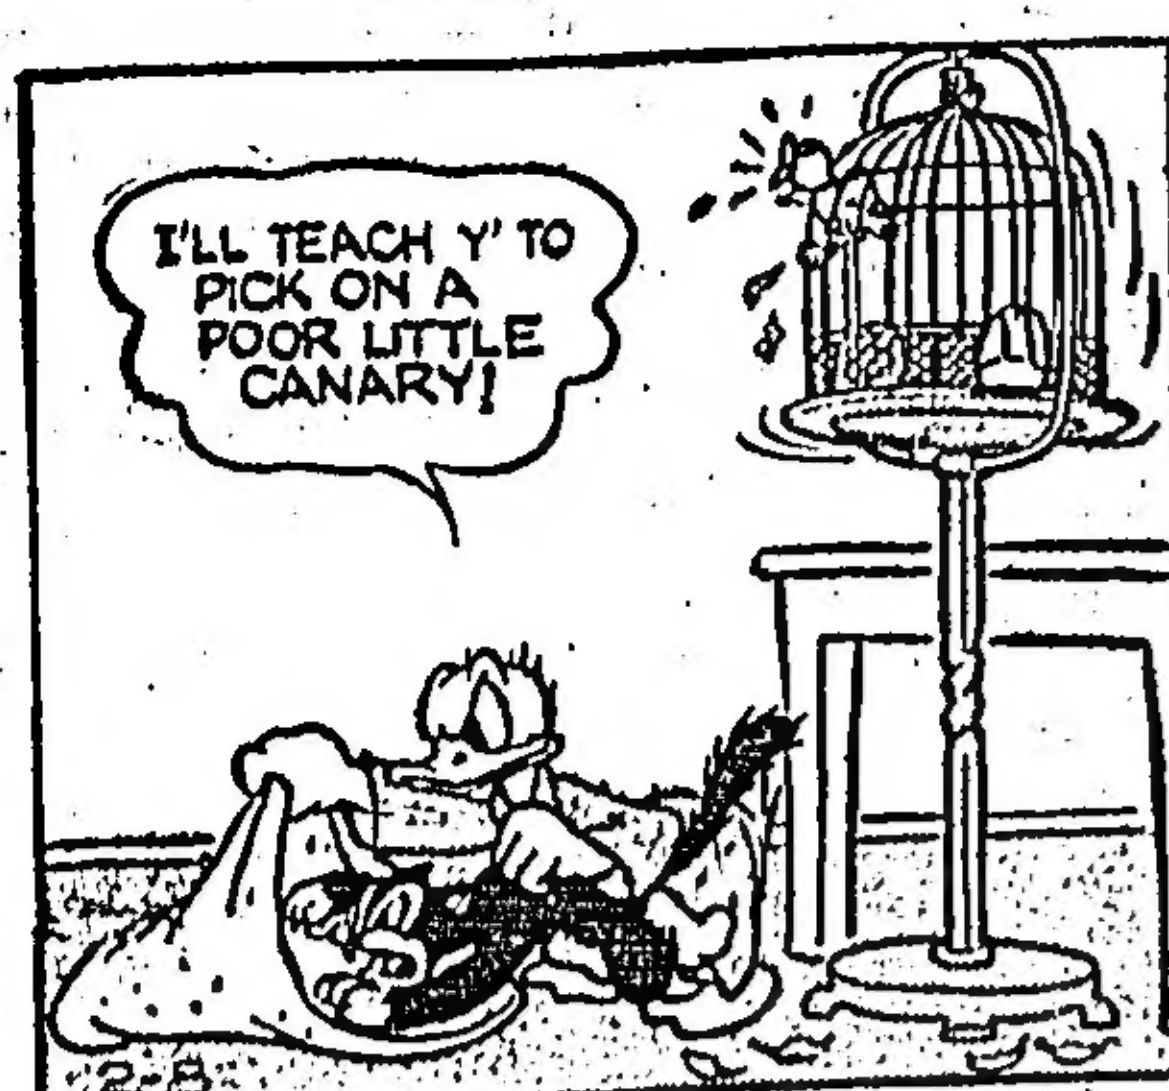

The cost is reported to be not much greater than ordinary tramp vessels, while by utilizing the short Arctic route, Russia could speed up the passage and at the same time relieve the port of Vladivostok and the trans-Siberian railway which for several months has been severely overloaded.

Revival Of Old Idea
Nothing is known regarding the German plans but it is assumed that since she pioneered cargo-carrying submarines at the time of the world war, she will almost certainly revive the idea on even a larger scale.

At that time, she called such submarines the "Bremen class," but in view of the progress made in submarine construction throughout the world since then, it is assumed that her next attempt would be for considerably larger vessels.

Theoretically there is no difficulty in constructing underwater cargo vessels capable of carrying 5,000 to 6,000 tons of cargo, but since they are expensive to operate over long distances, they would presumably be retained for only the most valuable forms of import and export cargo.

KOWLOON G. C. WIN ANNUAL GOLF MATCH

Happy Valley Beaten 22.1/4-11

The annual golf match between Kowloon G.C. and Happy Valley at Kowloon yesterday resulted in a win for the home Club by 22 1/4 points to 11. The feature of the match was the fine win of A. E. Davies over J. T. Smith, the Colony champion, in the Singles. The full scores were:

FROM PAGE ONE

He was informed that the Captain was dead, whereupon the First Engineer was taken off as a prisoner.

Captain Escapes, Disguised
Actually the Captain took to the lifeboat disguised as an able seaman and managed to escape to shore with the rest of the crew.

The inhabitants of Skagen heard a heavy explosion at 10 o'clock last night from the direction of the Skagen lightship. A Danish coastal cutter immediately put out, thinking that a floating mine had struck the lightship. Nine miles E.W. of the lightship the cutter met two lifeboats carrying 26 of the Hedderheim's crew who they towed ashore and quartered for the night.

The German consul from Frederikshaven arrived here this morning and arranged for the shipwrecked Germans to be transported to Germany. The crew were in good condition, fully clothed and in good spirits.

Trawler Hits U-Boat

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
ABERDEEN, Mar. 22 (UP).—The trawler Star of Peace is reported to have destroyed a U-boat in the North Sea last night.

The Captain said he struck a metal object and after four hard bumps the trawler seemed to slide over something and then there were three more hard bumps. The trawler heeled over but righted herself shortly. "We elected but nothing was visible, so we continued on our voyage."

No More Details Yet

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—It is stated at the Admiralty that no further details of the sinking of the Hedderheim are likely to be available until the submarine returns to her base.

Names Confused

COPENHAGEN, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—It is reported here that a German steamer, the name of which is given as Hedderheim, has been torpedoed in Kattegat, off the east coast of Denmark.

The submarine which torpedoed the ship took the First Engineer aboard. The remainder of the crew, numbering 36, who were in two life-boats, were picked up by a coast guard cutter.

The torpedoing occurred at 11.15 p.m. on March 21.

No steamer named Hedderheim appears in Lloyd's Register, but there is a German vessel called Hedderheim, of 4,947 tons, registered at Bremen.

Crew On Way To Germany
COPENHAGEN, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—The crew of the Hedderheim have left for Germany except the engineer who was taken aboard the submarine.

It is stated that the British submarine met the Hedderheim at 11.15 p.m. on Thursday and gave the crew 15 minutes to leave the ship. The crew stated that the British commander asked for the captain but the crew said that he was dead.

The First Engineer was then taken aboard the submarine.

Shortly afterwards, the captain, dressed as an ordinary sailor, left the vessel with the remainder of the crew. They took to two life-boats and were later picked up by a pilot boat from Skagen.

Admiralty Statement

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—The German ship, Hedderheim, now lies at the bottom of the sea, having been sunk by a British submarine which, unlike Nazi U-boats, made sure that the crew were safe before sinking the vessel.

An Admiralty statement says that the ship, a vessel of nearly 5,000 tons, was intercepted eight miles off the Danish coast.

It is learned that the crew have safely landed in Denmark.

They took to their life-boats after the submarine had warned them to abandon ship.

The First Engineer is reported to have been taken prisoner by the British submarine.

Earlier messages from Copenhagen gave further details.

The ship was torpedoed at Kattegat itself off the east coast of Jutland. The exact position is given as eight

YONG AND CHEW WIN OPEN DOUBLES MATCH

AT KING'S COLLEGE last night, K. L. Yong and C. F. Chew entered the second round of the Colony Badminton doubles championship when they beat H. M. Lau and S. C. Chung by 15-11, 8-15, 15-11. Though the scores were close, the match did not over-tax the energies of the winning pair.

Lau and Chung brought off some very fine shots during the second game, and fully deserved to win that game, though the University pair may have been guilty of slackening.

The final game was exciting, though Yong and Chew kept a comfortable lead for most of the time.

The winners will now meet F. Koh and C. Y. Yung in the second round.

miles from the Danish port of Frederikshaven (which should not be confused with the German port of Friedrichshaven).

It is situated on the northernmost tip of Denmark.

The First Sinking

This is the first British naval action reported in these waters. It is also the first recorded instance of a British submarine sinking a German merchantman.

There have been two reasons for the latter record. In the first place most German merchantmen have been driven from the seas. In the second place, the Royal Navy adheres to the rules of sea warfare.

British submarines have not been inactive, however, for it will be recalled that last September the submarine Salmon torpedoed a destroyer and a cruiser in the closely-guarded waters of Heligoland Bight, then sank a U-boat on the way out.

It will be recalled that this was shortly after the submarine had sighted the Bremen, which she let go free because she observed the rules and refused to sink a merchantman without warning.

To return to the Hedderheim. Her crew had only eight miles to row and were given fair warning to abandon ship.

"Forgotten War"

THE war in the Far East goes on, with neither side able to end it by military means. The Chinese are now employing well-organised and fairly well armed troops in considerable bodies; their guerrillas are active everywhere, including the districts which the Japanese describe as "occupied" and those which lie behind the forces of "occupation."

From time to time the Japanese military reports claim large successes, but even if these are actually won they bring the end no nearer. It is probably true that in Japan they no longer expect victory, either through battle or through seizure of territory. Their hope is that China will fall to them at last by sheer exhaustion and disunity.

The sufferings of China are certainly immense and may be worse. Millions of Chinese have been uprooted and have fled towards the west. They have experienced the worst terrors of a military invasion and they may yet undergo those of flood, famine, and disease.

Nevertheless, so greatly are the rulers and the people changed since the days when they were the tools of any strong and unscrupulous foreign Power, their essential unity persists in spite of everything that the Japanese can do.

What arms have not accomplished the Japanese think to achieve by statecraft. Rather more than a year ago this Government declared that it would not negotiate with the Government of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. Nor does it now.

THE men of the forenoon watch came streaming from the hatchways leading to the mess deck, pulling on their gauntlet gloves, adjusting muffers and balaclava helmets and the cowls of their duffle jackets. Some still chewed on the last mouthful of breakfast as they moved off to lookout and gun positions.

The morning watch—the men who had been at their posts since 4 a.m.—were stiff with cold and as hungry as ravens.

They exchanged few words with their reliefs but went clumping off below to the grateful warmth of the mess deck and hot tea and food. The guns' crews, huddled in what protection from the bitter wind the shields afforded, lit cigarettes and began yarning.

They talked about food and football and cinema-stars and the leave due to them in about four months' time. One man began to outline his first day of leisure, leading his listeners from public house to public house consuming imaginary pints of beer and recalling the charms of Plymouth barmaids. After a bit it made the crew thirsty and restive and they changed the conversation to breeding canaries. One broke into a little step-dance to warm himself.

WARDENS OF THE CONVOY

The look-outs on the bridge were divorced from conversation. They were in pairs, one watching the sea and the other the sky.

There were four pairs, each with a quadrant of sea and sky to observe. They remained motionless, staring through glasses.

The Captain of the rear destroyer on the quarter of the convoy had been on the bridge all night.

He stood by the compass with his hands in his pockets, staring ahead. Most of his faculties were concentrated on listening. Every few minutes somebody made a report. A look-out would report an object on the water; it might be a tin or a broom-handle, or a signalman would interpret a message flashed back from one of the destroyers ahead of them, or a wireless message would be passed to the bridge and read aloud, giving the position of patrols ahead.

"Very good," was his invariable reply. His steward brought him hot tea and bacon sandwiches which he munched mechanically, his eyes on the convoy strung out ahead of him. He had no idea what meal he was eating. His steward fed him at intervals, but the meals had no names.

Time was divided into the hours of darkness and the hours of light. Life itself was resolved into two divisions, sleeping and being awake. Life was composed of one duty, the safety of the convoy; it held one rare perfect happiness, sleep.

Still munching, he bent to the voice pipe and gave an order to alter course. The rear ship of the convoy had dropped astern of station. The destroyer ranged alongside and there were shouts exchanged through megaphones.

The ship was a Norwegian and the Captain explained that his chief engineer had allowed steam to drop. He said what he thought about the chief engineer too, but as he spoke only Norwegian left the Captain of the destroyer none the wiser on that point.

THE two seamen grinned at each other and waved their arms in brotherly accord. The destroyer captain pointed at the gap in the convoy with his megaphone, and the Norwegian captain nodded. He'd close it as soon as old Thorsonn at a head of steam on her.

The mist was forming into low lying clouds with glimpses of pale blue beyond. The Navigator of the sloop in the rear pushed back his cap and lit a cigarette—"Ideal day for an air attack," he said.

"We shall get one presently," replied the Sub-lieutenant. He stared towards a shadow in the haze to starboard that was the East Coast of England.

"There's a hotel near the beach over there," he said in a low voice, as if speaking to himself. "I stopped there once for a cup of tea. Before the war, I was on my way to dine with an aunt. There was a girl there having tea. She was all by herself. Her name was Beatrice—no, sorry, Thelma. We went and bathed together after tea. She had green eyes. I mean really green, like a cat's. I never got to my aunt's."

"Listen! Everybody on the bridge leaned back against the rail, their glasses raised to the clouds. Bang! One of the escort ships leading the convoy had opened fire with her anti-aircraft guns. A cloud eight miles away became pitted with shell bursts.

"A reconnaissance plane," said the Sub-lieutenant. "She's out of range. We shall have some fun presently."

He glanced once more towards the land, a swift valdatory glance that bade farewell to many things. "That's right," he murmured, as Thelma, I suppose she's forgotten all about it."

THE cook on board the escort sloop at the head of the convoy—was—taking—in—the dinners handed through the doorway.

He opened the oven door and shot them into the oven one after the other and shut the door with a slam. He had only just finished serving out breakfast and before he could get his galley scrubbed out they'd be wanting hot tea. His mate sat on the preparing table eating a fried egg off a plate on his lap. He was round faced and curly haired and was staring at nothing while he ate the egg delicately off a knife blade.

"Did you hear Lord Haw-Haw on the wireless last night?" He enquired suddenly.

The cook replied that he had something better to do. "He's a scream," said the lad. "You'd laugh fit to bust yourself."

He scraped the plate with the knife and took a long drink of tea. "I see in the paper a chap in Germany got three years in quod for listening to an English broadcast."

"Serve him right," said the cook. "None of 'is worth listening to 'cept the gardening talks. I like them."

THE roar of the alarm gongs drowned his words.

The watch below, who had begun to scrub out the mess deck, went past the galley door in a rush of jostling humanity and cluttered pell mell up the steel ladders to their runs. The cook's mate went with them, one of the fire party, with egg washings his plate and knife, listening to the concussion of the guns overhead that made the pans clatter on the range.

About noon the first attack by Heinkel bombers came out of the sun, a watery sun partly obscured by clouds. They dived in an arrow-head formation through a blaze of gunfire and dropped their bombs. The sea leaped into columns of foam where they fell among the ships of the convoy.

They banked steeply and sped south eastward pursued by bursting shells. One machine suddenly dived seaward trailing smoke. The others vanished.

The destroyer on the quarter moved up the line hauling each ship as she passed.

"No hits, no casualties," came the answer each time.

The captain of the destroyer, standing by the compass with his hands in his pockets, dictated a signal to the senior officer of the escort, at the head of the convoy.

His steward appeared with a plate of sandwiches which he ate mechanically, watching a sister destroyer moving off at full speed to investigate the wreckage of the Heinkel. The guns' crews and look-outs were also eating sandwiches and drinking tea out of mugs brought round by the cooks, their eyes on the clouds.

The sound of firing out at sea had attracted little crowds of people along the coast. The ships were invisible in the sea haze but they gathered in clusters on headlands and beaches, staring seaward for some tidings of the fight, just where their forbears had stood and stared through the centuries of history.

The cook and his mate on board the escort sloop were cutting sandwiches as if for a wager.

"I reckon ships in a convoy are safer than blokes ashore, very near," said the mate taking a bite out of a sandwich and putting it on one side. "There's never yet been one sunk by a bomb."

"Leave off eating the sandwiches and never mind the convoy," retorted the cook. "Cutting sandwiches is your job, so get on with it. All them nice hot dinners spoiling," he added gloomily.

On the edge of the cliff to the northward a green eyed girl stood looking out to the sea. "I wonder if you are in that fight," she said "and if you ever remember . . ."

"As the treacherous English have not replaced the lightship we bombed last week, I am afraid, Herr Kapitan, we are aground."

TO-DAY THE "TELEGRAPH" STARTS YET ANOTHER INTERESTING NEW FEATURE—"THEY SAID OF HONGKONG"—BEING A SERIES OF EXTRACTS FROM JOURNALS AND LETTERS BY IMPORTANT PEOPLE ABOUT THIS COLONY OF OURS.

THE CAPTURE OF HONGKONG

Extracts from a despatch from Viscount Palmerston, Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, to Queen Victoria, 10th April, 1841. Captain Elliot, after capturing the Chinese position at the mouth of the West River, concluded a preliminary treaty with the Chinese Government, which did not satisfy the Chinese, and which was strongly disapproved of by the British Ministry, as containing no mention of the opium traffic which Britain sought to see maintained, and which had been the cause of the war with China; Elliot was accordingly recalled, and succeeded by Sir Henry Pottinger, who became first Governor of Hongkong. The treaty signed by Elliot provided for the cession of Hongkong to Britain, with payment of an indemnity of $6,000,000, with provision for commercial facilities and collection of customs.

Foreign Office, 10th April, 1841. VISCOUNT PALMERSTON presents his humble duty to your Majesty, and has the honour to submit the accompanying letters, which he received yesterday, about the operation in China, and which have just been returned to him by Viscount Melbourne, whose letter he also transmits.

Viscount Palmerston has felt greatly mortified and disappointed at this result of the expedition to China, and he much fears that the sequel of the negotiation, which was to follow the conclusion of these preliminary conditions, will not tend to render the arrangement less objectionable.

Captain Elliot seems to have wholly disregarded the instructions which had been sent to him, and even when, by the entire success of the operations of the Fleet, he was in a condition to dictate his own terms, he seems to have agreed to very inadequate conditions. The amount of compensation for the opium surrendered falls short of the value of that opium, and nothing has been obtained for the expenses of the expedition, nor for the debts of the bankrupt Hong merchants. The securities which the plenipotentiaries were expressly ordered to obtain for British residents in China have been abandoned; and the island of Chusan (Formosa) which they were specially informed was to be retained till the whole of the pecuniary compensation should have been paid, has been hastily and discredibly evacuated. Even the cession of Hongkong has been coupled with a condition about the payment of duties, which would render that island not a possession of the British Crown, like Macao, but a settlement held by sufferance in the territory of the Crown of China.

Viscount Palmerston has sent a small map of the Canton River, which your Majesty may like to keep for future reference.

EDWARD KELLY (BRAWN, NOT BRAINS) WRITES ABOUT

Hongkong Sports I've Known

SWARMS of soccers and hockers are disporting themselves around our fields in this time of emergency.

And the interest that's being taken in cricket is wicket (poetry!)

You've just got to mention rugby and someone drags out an old school tie.

Bowling is also a howling success (more poetry!)

In fact, there's danger that Hongkong is neglecting the manlier sports. Us, for instance.

This is a crying shame. There is nothing more pathetic than a manly sport who has been

MAYBE it's Spring. Anyway, Mr. Edward Kelly, Hongkong's ranking No. 1 Sport in Hongkong Ladies Hockey circles and other feminine clubs, has become athletic all over.

All this news that's published in the papers about hockey and soccer has worked him into a frenzy. After giving the local teams the once over, he wrapped his toes around the electric heater, isolated himself, hungerstruck for four days and after profound thought emerged with a scheme to improve local sporting competitions.

Let him tell you about it in his own words.

neglected.

We ourselves have been a keen sport ever since we won the toe-sucking championship in 1906.

In our school days—we went to Queen's College—we won the egg and spoon race every year we entered.

Finally, we were debarré from competing as the college was running out of spoons.

We used to give all the girls a lap start. Yes, how they were startled.

But we were 17 before we took up sport professionally. We could tell you about the night we took Miss—

Editor's Note: Not in this paper, you won't!

Author's Note: We can dismiss the incident in a paragraph.

Editor's Note: Not a line.

Author's Note: All right, but you wouldn't talk to us like that if we didn't have a wife and four kids to support.

THEN there's tidily winks. We have been more tidily and had more winks than any other sport in Hongkong.

We must confess that we were a trifle weak at Ping Pong. But it's a quiet city. We have also visited Mah Jongg and other well known Chinese places in search of sport.

Although we like marbles, the best sport we know is Mahel.

Ever since they took our chest measurements at Volunteer Headquarters they've wanted us to become a Key Post.

This made us good for wrestling. Mahel said we were the best wrestler she'd ever encountered.

The very first night we took up this sport we started from scratch.

We got our experience in this game at Eton. It was on Eton's playing fields that most of our big battles were won.

Mr. Himsworth will tell you that we are an old Blue. The last time he sent us a blue paper was when he had our boat race across the harbour. We forgot our boat.

That was the time we crept into our bedroom on our hands and knees.

Ever since they took our chest measurement at Volunteer Headquarters they've wanted us to become a Key Post.

"Is that you, Fido," our wife murmured sleepily.

We got out of that one by licking her hand.

But we were always an old dog. We remember when we mushed across the Yukon. We met an Eskimo. Or a lass. Or an Alaskan. Yukon have it your own way. We tried to have it our own way. She was like an ice-box—a frigid-dare. We threatened we'd leave her again. "Well, if you mushed, you mush," she said. We could have sleighed her. So we came to Hongkong.

There are lots of other sports we could write about, but we know the Editor would only waste valuable space with his crude interruptions.

So we will now go across to the Hotel to practice for the next elbow-lifting championship, which we expect to win at Volunteer Headquarters on April 5 if we are not debarré from the chit-signing competition.

Remember, girls, we sports mayn't have the good looks and the debonair manner, but you should see the muscles running up and down our arms, and the hair on our chest.

The way a rattlesnake fascinates a bird has nothing on us. Adder boy!

MR. AU YOUNG IN CHARGE (formerly of Mayen Studio)

Even Adolf Had a Mother

LADY OXFORD tells the story of a conversation she had with von Ribbentrop, who was insisting, in spite of anything that was said to the contrary, that the Germans have a sense of humour.

"Why," said he, "many a time Herr Hitler and I have been so overcome with laughter that we have rolled together on the floor."

"Indeed," retorted Lady Oxford. "If my children had done that I should have sent them to bed."

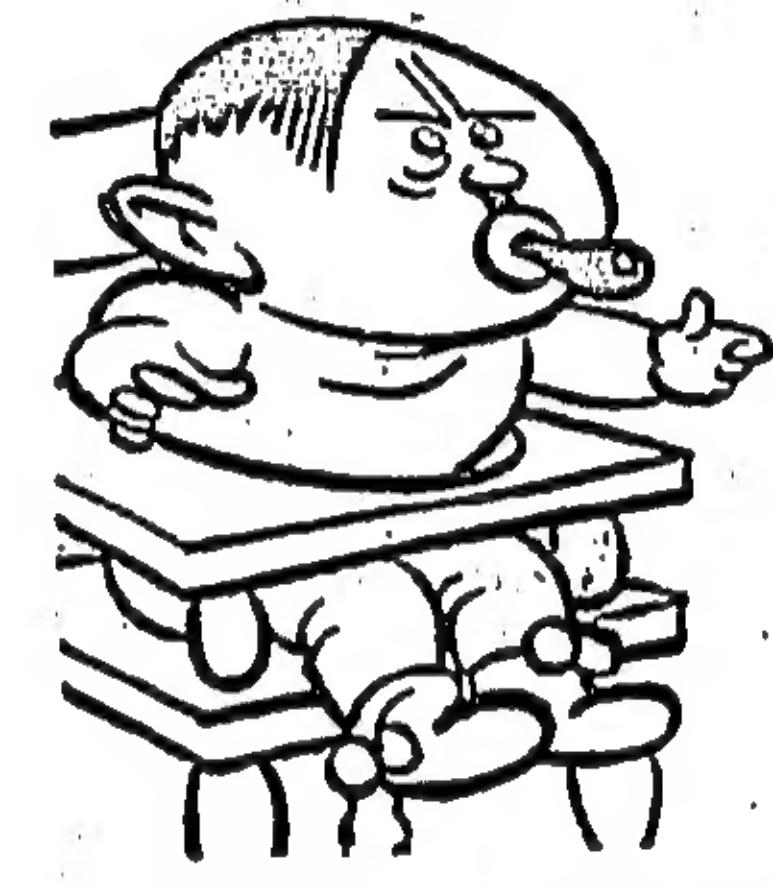

HITLER rolling on the floor with laughter!

Hitler in a fit of passion saying and doing things for which, when the storm has passed, he is regretful enough to make amends!

Hitler like a child playing with soldiers, moving them here and moving them there; then not liking the pattern they make he flies into a rage and smash, a soldier lies broken.

There was a story in the Press some time ago attributing Hitler's hatred of the Jews to the fact that one Jew sinned against his young sister. It may be just a tale, but it is in character; it fits easily into place in that jig-saw puzzle that is Hitler.

ONE day a man-child... the son that almost every woman longs for and when he comes loves beyond any of his sisters, to his detriment... was born in Austria.

"He preferred mother's lap"

Baby Adolf lies on his mother's lap and she bends over him dreaming the dreams mothers only dream about their sons, wondering "What will he be when he grows up?"

Little Adolf is very snug in his mother's lap, but mother has work to do. Adolf is put into his crib. It is a soft and warm, but Adolf prefers his mother's lap. He makes his wishes known at the top of his voice.

"Don't give in to him," says some wise woman, "or he'll always scream for what he wants."

But Adolf's mother cannot bear to hear him scream. She sighs,

"He's so little; not old enough to understand," and picks him up.

Adolf smiles.

"What will he be when he grows up?"

Adolf, a toddler now, is visited by Anna, the five years old. Anna carries a toy elephant which she loves. Adolf wants it.

"But," says his mother gently, "you have so many nice toys of your own."

Adolf wants Anna's elephant. He snatches it and his leg comes off in the struggle. Anna, defending her loved one, hits out and Adolf shrieks.

Adolf's mother is an avenging fury. How dare Anna hit a child so much younger; he only wanted to hold the elephant; it was selfish of Anna.

What will Adolf be when he grows up?

"EVEN" Hitler had a mother. It is that "even" which is the key word. In it is all that Hitler stands for—and all that motherhood should stand for.

It is a solemn thought that every time a mother says "yes" to her child when she should say "no," every time she condones when she should reprimand, she is building a little Hitler who will, no matter how small his sphere, bring sorrow to the world rather than happiness.

SCAPA They had 5 tries last time

By H. C. FERRABY

ONE man standing by an electric switch in a hut on a bare, bleak islet at one of the entrances to Scapa Flow.

That was all.

But that one man often stood between the Grand Fleet of 1918 and destruction by enemy submarines. Once only did he press the switch in all the months he kept his watch. It was enough. The U-boat which was then creeping up the Sound with a Death or Glory crew of volunteer officers on board, bent on blowing up Beatty and the Grand Fleet flagship, went up in a tornado of bursting mines.

That was the last of five attempts made by the enemy in the great war to attack the Grand Fleet in its resting place. None of them succeeded, even in the earliest days of the war when the defences were primitive and long before the electrical contact mine-field in the channel had been devised.

A famous U-boat ace—Weddigen, in U-6—made the first attempt in the early autumn of 1914. He tried the eastern entrance, but the destroyer patrol got at him. The Albatross nearly rammed him, and as he disentangled himself from this encounter the Nymph was almost on top of him. He did a crash-dive, and when he was safe on the bottom thought things over. Then he decided to go home.

In October U-22 was in the offing, but made only a half-hearted attempt to get in. It was von Heining, in U-18, who made the next determined effort, creeping cautiously along the channel in the wake of a steamer taking supplies to the base. He was detected by a drifter patrol, rammed and chivvied away. The U-boat was only half under control and breaking surface every now and again to betray her whereabouts. She drifted down to the Skerries and there she sank, all the crew except one being taken prisoner. Even if U-18 had got through there would have been no prize. The Grand Fleet was away.

The dramatic last attempt found not only nets and booms and hydrophones installed, but also electrical detectors which flashed news of every movement in the channel, on the surface or below, to a tell-tale screen in an observation hut. Little signals showed exactly where the boat was from minute to minute. The watcher had only to wait until she was among the spectral mines which would only explode when he depressed the master switch.

My Easter resolution—is to make them easier. Don't thank me. I've always been large-hearted, generous to a fault. To prove it, just cast a casual eye over these. But be not too casual about it, lest one or two of the seemingly easiest ones be found not QUITE so easy as you'd think.

"Captain Foster's" Racing Review

SUCCESSFUL MEETING AT KWANTI

Heavy Weather Fails To Deter Punters: Dick Turpin's Success

WHAT A GRAND SUCCESS was the St. Patrick's Day Meet at Fanling last Sunday. It was honoured by the presence of His Excellency the Governor and Lady Northcote, practically all the Stewards of the Hongkong Jockey Club, the high lights of the Navy, Army and Air Forces, and the "small men" of the turf.

The band of the Middlesex Regiment was in attendance to enliven the afternoon with a few Irish airs, and when they played "God Save the King" at the end, we all said "good-bye" to Kwanti for another nine months.

Congratulations are due to the Stewards, Officials and the staff in general for the very efficient manner in which every department was run. To run an organisation of this sort in a country was by no means a small venture and full marks must, therefore, be given to Mr. Kwok Hin-wang—the life wire of the Fanling Hunt and Race Club.

There was not a bit of blue sky when the first race started. Just before the running of the Governor's Cup (second event), the drizzle began, but the weather clerk closed the tap after the runners in the Dublin Handicap (first section) had crossed the line. The visibility at this juncture was so poor that the time of the contest was not taken by the Timekeeper, Mr. Bob Charles. However, I must congratulate those punters, who conceived the idea of carrying their umbrellas, for there was certainly no shelter at Kwanti racecourse.

ITALIAN NOVELTY

BY the way I presume all the Stewards of the Fanling Hunt Club are aware that umbrellas were originally used to protect rider and horse from the weather. A traveller, seeing this novelty in Italy in 1608, described it as follows: "Many of them do carry which they commonly call in the Italian tongue umbrellas. These are made of leather, something answerable to the form of a little canopy. They are used especially by horsemen who carry them in their hands when they ride." The most amazing part at Kwanti last Sunday was that there was not a single lady carrying an umbrella, and the use of same by the opposite sex obscured the view of those unfortunate "longhairs."

A RUDE SHOCK

THE failure of two ex-champion jumpers in Ebony Idol and Brutus in the Fanling Grand National and the Australian Grand National respectively was a rude shock to many supporters. I fully expected Ebony Idol to go under Clowner, but Brutus let me down after having elevated him to the top of the Kwanti hills. It seemed to me that Mr. Trevorton got up, the pony was somewhat overworked by the occasion, and he was also too anxious to get over the fences. The Kwanti course is a peculiar one, which I cannot describe, but the Lou's jump is situated at the sharp turn, and if not properly timed in taking off, one is looking for trouble. After clearing the open ditch for the first time, Brutus was in the front rank, but he was many lengths ahead coming out of the dip, and the run between these two points must have been a sharp one. However, it was at the Lou's jump that he miscalculated the speed and Brutus toppled over to give his jockey an ender. When Mr. Trevorton got up, the pony was running around the football field, and that, of course, was the end of the 'chaser.

A SMALL FORTUNE

THE unexpected success of Dick Turpin with Mr. S. L. Yuen in the saddle in the Kwanti Cup brought in a small fortune of $23,940 to the lucky drawer of ticket No. 35880 in the "A" series of the special dollar cash sweep. In the "B" series the first prize was worth $10,064.52, and the lucky number of the ticket was 10584. I am not asking readers to make a note of Dick Turpin's performance, but I shall thank them to bear in mind that in my opinion he does not like the Valley course. Last year the pony started six times at Happy Valley without earning a cent, but on Boxing Day Dick Turpin went to Fanling where he registered a win for the owner, Mr. Billy Poy. At the big meeting the cob had two unplaced outings with the result that the owner made a present of the pacer to Mr. A. H. Potts, who naturally was tickled with the victory of his new "dumb friend" in the Kwanti Cup. We will have to wait now and see how the lad will act at Happy Valley.

ROYAL SCOTS DEFEAT CLUB 5-1 AT SOOKUNPOO

(By "Rox")

Club went down five goals to one in their First Division League encounter with Royal Scots at Sookunpoo yesterday.

Club's weakness lay in their defence. Odell, Bone and Eardley showed very poor understanding. Odell picked up later in the game and put in some nice saves. Bone's inclination to kick back to the goalkeeper cost the Club one goal and his clearances were at times wild. Eardley, individually, rendered a good account of himself, but failed to cover up for Bone laying upon himself more work thereby.

The half-back line of Siskner, Forrow and Gratton was pushed very hard. Gratton was a hard worker and a trier but lacked experience. Pryde again gave an exceedingly fine performance. He is the most consistent player for Club. Fowler worked very hard but was very unfortunate on several occasions. Dickford and E. Strange showed semblances of understanding and at times displayed some fine approach work. Wilson worked very hard on the right wing but results were nil. Parnaby played a sterling game at right-half. He spoiled a lot, and his feeding of the right flank was very good. Falconer at centre-half did a great deal towards nullifying most of Fowler's efforts, and also came in for some nice feeding work. Clarke did practically what he wished with Wilson but found in Pryde something more elusive.

SIX minutes from the whistle Royal Scots staged a raid on the Club area. Munro received from Parnaby to centre to Allan whose parting shot struck the advancing Odell. Allan tried again, and found the empty net to open the scoring for the Scots. A minute later saw Falconer send in a high centre which Bone trapped successfully to pass the ball to Odell, who had left his charge. The ball went by Odell into the net to place the Scots two up.

Fowler made gallant efforts to reduce but was foiled by the stout Scots' defence. Pryde came in for some nice shots at goal which just missed the crossbar or upright by inches. Club was being pressed and Bickford fell back to aid the defence. His clearance struck Allan, the ball rebounded between Bone and Eardley for the vigilant Holden to slip through and put it past Odell for Scots third goal.

FOWLER-BICKFORD COMBINATION
FOWLER and Bickford combined well to bring the ball right up to the Scots goal but Duncan managed to intercept Fowler's pass and cleared. Soon after, however, Strange made a solo effort, tricked the entire Scots' defence to centre to Fowler who scored from a difficult angle.

SCOTS TWO QUICK GOALS
HOLDEN sent the Scots further ahead when he stopped Eardley's clearance to shoot past Odell. About

THE HOCKEY INTERPORT

Pen Pictures Of Macao And Hongkong Teams

(By "Pilgrim")

TO-MORROW on the Navy ground at King's Park, the Seventh Hockey Interport between Hongkong and Macao will be played at 10.30 a.m. There is an old saying that "It is a long lane that has no turning," and ever since 1934 we have been vainly endeavouring to lower the colours of Macao on our home ground, and the victory has always eluded us. We have never defeated Macao at home, and whether we are capable of accomplishing this feat remains to be seen.

In view of Macao's moderate showing against Recreo and the Kumaon Rifles during the Chinese New Year, one has to ask himself, "Is this going to be the year of home victory at last for Hongkong?"

Here is the interport record to date:

- 1934 Hongkong drew at Hongkong 1-1.
- 1935 Hongkong won at Macao 3-1.
- 1936 Hongkong lost at Hongkong 0-1.
- 1937 Hongkong won at Macao 1-0.
- 1938 Hongkong lost at Hongkong 0-1.
- 1939 Hongkong drew at Macao 2-2.

THE COLONY XI

Pen sketches of our interport XI: V. M. BENWELL (Club goalkeeper) has unquestionably found his position in the last line of defence. He shows splendid judgment when to stay on the line, and when to come out. He displays a keen defence, and is quick and alert to tackle, or to kick out when hard-pressed. It is generally conceded that his form this season has been the most brilliant in his playing career.

PTE. STICKLEY (Army r.f.) is in fine form this season. He is a good and sound tackler and hits the ball cleanly and well. One never finds him flurried when he is "up against it." He has well deserved the confidence of the Selectors.

DATTA RAM (Army l.b.) This is his debut for the Colony. He is a grand tackler, the hardest hitter in the team, and an expert at taking short corners. He is not a spectacular or showy back, but is the foremost left back at the moment, a distinction well deserved.

CAPT. G. W. HOOK (Army r.h.) It is a moot point whether we can produce a greater exponent of half-back play. It is a real pleasure to watch this player with his back to the wall, so to speak, for one then observes his finest gift in tackling, anticipation, and clean follow-through driving. Possesses great stamina.

W. A. REED (Club c.h.). At all events, he takes rank as being one of the foremost classical players who has been seen in this important playing position. His knowledge of tactics is most profound, and to watch him on the field is a liberal instructional education for young and old. He combines beautiful stick-work with a wonderful sense of positioning, and is still playing with all that keenness and cleverness, even if a little slow, which latter is not surprising. Participating in his seventh interport—proud record no other player can claim.

N. B. WHITLEY (C.B.A. l.h.). For the last two seasons, he has been hovering close to interport honours. His skill as a player has been fully recognised during the trials. He has now found a place, and created a favourable impression. There can be no more skillful tackler, and remorseless feeder of his forwards. Is still in the course of rapid development.

S. A. FOWLER (C.B.A. r.w.) Seems to have regained form this season, and gets great power behind his centres. A very versatile type of player in the front line, but brings all his brilliant dash and speed out to the full when operating on the wing.

LI PRITAM NATH (Army l.f.). The best inside forward the Selectors could find this season. His stick-work is neat and clever, and his passing is well thought out, and, moreover, is a good shot. He still commands a high turn of speed, but needs to be carefully supported to get the best out of him.

SGT. HOMBURG (Army c.f.). Entrusted with the leadership of the Colony team. Has been playing for the R.E.'s, and his form for the Army has been noteworthy. Is very speedy and dashing; he has little clever stick-work, but sufficient to enable him to beat a defender in a tackle. Shoots with rare power, and is the leading goal-scorer in the Association tournament.

NERAIN SINGH (Army l.f.). A very clear, constructive forward with a strong shot. His quickness on the ball, clever, stick-work and shrewd judgment makes him an ideal inside left. Altogether an experienced interporter.

PARTAB SINGH (Army l.w.). This diminutive demon still retains his wonderful speed and dash; his deadly shooting remains just the same as when he first played for the Colony three years ago. His reverse stick-work is a commanding feature of his play—No other player excels in this department with greater skill.

A Look Through The "Telegraph"

50 YEARS AGO

March 23, 1900.
The whole of Her Majesty's Guards have been supplied with new Magazine rifles.

Mr. Kruger, President of the South African Republic, who was at Johannesburg yesterday, was interrupted in a speech he made by a hostile crowd in the market place when the government was denounced and the Transvaal flag lowered and destroyed. After the demonstration in the market place the crowd afterwards marched to Landraals where they sang "Rule Britannia" and smashed the railings and endeavoured to seize the flag. The outbreak is considered more of a rowdy than of a political character.

The English Army Estimates amount to £17,000,000, being an increase of £300,000 which is chiefly due to the introduction and manufacture of the new magazine rifles.

25 YEARS AGO

March 23, 1915.
A Paris official statement says—Between 1.15 and 2 o'clock in the morning, four Zeppelins made for Paris from the direction of Compiègne, following the valley of the Oise.

Two were compelled to return before reaching the capital—one at Ecouen and the other at Mantes. The remainder were attacked by anti-aircraft guns and only flew over the suburbs of north-west Paris; they withdrew after dropping some dozen bombs. The damage to property is insignificant. Seven persons were struck, one seriously.

Mr. Thomas A. Watson, an associate of Mr. Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, who heard the first word spoken over a wire, recently spoke from San Francisco to New York at a celebration of the completion of a trans-continental telephone service. The original experiments were made in Boston in 1876. Mr. Watson was on the floor of a building, and the inventor on another. Mr. Bell spoke the first word over the wire. He said: "Mr. Watson, come here, I want you."

A New York despatch from Valparaiso states the armed merchantman Orms fought and sank the German armed liner Navarra in November of the River Plate, and rescued the crew.

10 YEARS AGO

March 23, 1930.
The aeroplane which Mr. Van Lear Black is using on his world tour is a Fokker F. VII-B, a high winged monoplane and is engine with three 300 h.p. Wright Whirlwinds maintaining a cruising speed of 100 m.p.h. and this machine in particular is provided with extra tanks giving it a range of 1,200 miles.

The A.D.C. production of "And So To Bed" opens at the Theatre Royal tomorrow night.

5 YEARS AGO

March 23, 1935.
"We are marching towards war," declared Mr. George Lansbury, Labour Party chief and Opposition leader in the House of Commons, during the debate on the European crisis yesterday. Germany has flung a challenge to the world, and he therefore demanded that Great Britain make a counter-challenge favouring the abandonment of aerial warfare everywhere.

"I want Britain to say she is willing to take her chance in an earnest endeavour to end this foul business of fighting from the sky."

"There is no excuse for Germany's violation of the Treaty of Versailles," declared Mr. Frank B. Kellogg, joint author of the Briand-Kellogg Pact outlawing war and American member of the International Court at the Hague, interviewed here to-day.

Mr. Kellogg asserted that there would be no war in Europe over the present impasse. "Certainly we Americans are not going to be in any war, that may appear later in Europe," said Mr. Kellogg.

The decision of the White Star Line to present a petition for the compulsory winding up of the company, was the outcome of the adjourned extraordinary general meeting to-day.

RUSSIAN PURCHASES War Materials Come From United States

London, Mar. 21.
Russia is buying large quantities of war material from the United States. This was disclosed by the Minister for Economic Warfare at a question time in the Commons to-day. He said the Soviet purchases of oil in the United States during the year ending March 31, although much above the 1938 figures, would not be in excess of the quantities imported in some previous years.

The Minister said there was, however, evidence of large Soviet purchases in the United States of other war material, especially copper, and this question was receiving the constant attention of His Majesty's Government.—Reuter.

NO NAZI FIGHTERS

Whore Were They During Sylt Raid?

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—Reports from pilots engaged in recent operations indicate that the defence of Sylt against attacks from the air was left almost entirely to German searchlight units and anti-aircraft batteries.

This has led to much comment, writes "Reuter's" military correspondent.

Where were the German fighters? Why was no attempt made to intercept the British bombers before their arrival or on their way back?

The answer to these questions is probably that the raid was made at night. Hitherto all German raids on the British were able to see them and intercept them at high speed.

The British raids on the other hand, including the latest recent ones, have been made at night.

The problem of the efficiency of German fighters is, therefore, still to be solved.

Nazis Have New Gun

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—Details of a new German light anti-aircraft gun were given by a Pilot Officer who participated in the Sylt raid.

"We found that the Germans have a new gun. They fired this all the time that we were over Sylt," said this officer.

"The things that came up are not 'flaming onions' as they come up in a burst like a big clip of ammunition. About a dozen reddish balls spread out slowly at first and then shoot up at an incredible speed.

"The night is so pretty that it is hard to think that they might be lethal."

We Have Cannons Too

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—In the House of Commons to-day, Captain H. H. Balfour, Under-Secretary for Air, stated that German planes had no advantage over British machines by possessing cannon guns.

Not only are British cannon guns in full swing of production but our fighters are equipped with them already and have contributed to the destruction of some enemy machines.

Fighting In North China

Many Japanese Casualties

PEIPING, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—It is understood that there has been constant fighting in the hills west of Mentoukou during the past week, accompanied by heavy aerial bombing. There has also been constant fighting and bombing at Toli and Liulihou, west of the Peiping-Hankow Line, to which it is reported that Japanese reinforcements had to be hushed up from Taotingpu in order to free a Japanese detachment that had been surrounded.

Japanese casualties are reported to be considerable in the Mentoukou area.

The Japanese are reported to have been raiding villages and commandeering all able-bodied men for transport work.

DECORATION FOR MANNERHEIM

HELSINGFORS, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—President Kallio has decorated Marshal Mannerheim with Finland's highest award. It is a great diamond cross of the Order of the Cross of Freedom.

In an interview with foreign journalists, President Kallio asked them to express Finland's thanks to their countries for the help given to her during the war.

He has a special word for the assistance given by France and Britain.

SUMNER WELLES SENDS THANKS

ROME, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—On leaving Italy, Mr. Sumner Welles sent a telegram to Count Ciano requesting him to transmit to the King his deep appreciation for the audience granted him and expressing his profound gratitude for the cordial and friendly welcome of the Italian Government.

Finland's Thanks For Help

GENEVA, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—M. Tolst, the Finnish delegate to the League of Nations, had handed a note to the League Secretary thanking them for the help given to Finland. The note expresses a hope that the League will continue its help during the difficult period of reconstruction in Finland.

GOOD FRIDAY MIRACLE

COSENZA, Mar. 22 (UP).—The miracle of the Nun Alena Alfello occurred for the 10th consecutive Good Friday when blood streamed from her forehead without any apparent injury.

Scapa Raid Publicity

Pungent Comment By Neutral Paper

STOCKHOLM, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—The "Dagens Nyheter" considers that so much publicity is given to the Scapa Flow raid that it might have been carried out for propaganda alone, and the paper ironically quotes the German reports that three warships were damaged and columns of fire were seen, etc.

The impression on reading the bellicose outpourings of the German Press is that Germany really wants peace, but plays a role in case the Allies refuse their terms.

"There is the same impression from the unrestrained threats of Britain's imminent downfall when not even British shipping has suffered noticeable loss.

Hitler Forestalled

"Hitler tried to reach President Roosevelt through the Pope and Mr. Sumner Welles, but President Roosevelt forestalled him with Saturday's speech demanding the security of small nations and liberation from oppression and the force of arms.

"That's President Roosevelt's programme, and also England's and France's," concludes the paper.

The Gothenburg "Göteborgsposten" says: "It is astonishing that England, in the middle of a flaming war, could give so much valuable war material and not under way so quickly."

The "New York Times" says: "The British raid on the Isle of Sylt seems to have been a thorough, businesslike job of retaliation for the German attack on Scapa Flow. It is a tribute to their fighting prowess that only one from 30 or more raiding planes, according to the British, failed to return. There will be no comfort for Hitler in this."

Extrality In China

New Statement In Japanese Diet

TOKYO, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—An interpellator in the Diet to-day asked for information regarding the position of foreign concessions in China with the progress in building up a "new order" in East Asia.

Major-General Muto, Chief of the Military Affairs Board, in reply, emphasized that it was clear from the repeated declarations of the Japanese Government that Japan will consider the retrocession of Japanese concessions in China as construction of the new order progresses.

Japan To Take Action

"I think Japan should take necessary action as soon as the new situation in East Asia has been accomplished," he said.

In the event that Third Powers do not conform, General Muto said, Japan and China "should make every effort to bring about a really 'new order' in East Asia, taking suitable measures according to the necessity of the situation."

Shirogani Maru Incident

The "Telegraph" understands that there have been no further developments in the Shirogani Maru incident, in which a Hongkong police constable was forcibly detained by Japanese military guards.

The Commissioner of Police, Hon. Mr. T. H. King, denies earlier reports that he had been offered, and has accepted, an explanation of the incident.

"I have received no explanation from the Captain, or any other officers of the ship," the Hon. Mr. King told the "Telegraph."

It is revealed that the Police constable was released at 5 a.m. on Monday and not 5 p.m. Police arrived at the O.S.K. wharf at 11 p.m., seven hours before the Shirogani Maru was scheduled to sail for Canton, presumably with the Chinese constable imprisoned aboard.

CHURCHES PRAY FOR N.Z. PREMIER

WELLINGTON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—The churches here have decided to offer prayers for the recovery of the Prime Minister, the Rt. Hon. Mr. M. J. Savage whose health is giving rise to anxiety.

Messages of sympathy and good wishes have been received from His Majesty the King as well as Mr. Chamberlain, Mr. Anthony Eden and Mr. Eamon de Valera.

More Women To Draw Pensions

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—Under the new Pensions Act, pensions will become payable to women under the contributory scheme at the age of 60 instead of 65.

An immediate effect of the new Act will be almost to double the number of women at present drawing contributory Old Age pensions.

EXPLOSION AT CHARLTON KILLS 4 MEN

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—Four men are believed to have been killed in an explosion to-day at the metal engineering works at Charlton.

It is understood that the men were carrying out acetylene welding on a reactor.

The explosion blew the reactor high in the air and two of the men were blown up with it.

Disperse In Better Heart M.P.'s Encouraged By Sylt Raid

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—Members of Parliament dispersed for the Easter vacation in better heart than has been apparent for some time, says "Reuter's" Parliamentary correspondent.

The inactivity of a large part of the fighting forces has been no less easy to tolerate at Westminster than in other parts of the country, and the conclusion of the Finnish-Russian peace gave momentary scope for criticism of the Cabinet's war policy which has been near the surface for many weeks with the result that the familiar forecast of imminent Cabinet changes has re-appeared.

In the House of Commons on Wednesday, the Government had a good day from the Parliamentary point of view.

The vigour of Mr. Chamberlain's speech was followed by news of the attack on Sylt and by the firm note in the speeches of the War Minister, the Air Minister and Mr. Churchill.

Criticism made little progress in the debate and has since receded further.

Cabinet Changes?

The question remains whether the Cabinet changes expected for some time past are probable during the Easter vacation.

It is possible, for Mr. Chamberlain keeps his secrets, but there is no evidence of immediate changes. Informed opinion takes the view that they will not come just yet. If, when the changes come, they include a smaller War Cabinet with Mr. Churchill as Minister for Co-ordination of Defence, many critics will be well-satisfied.

Re-Convenes On April 2

LONDON, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—Parliament has adjourned until April 2.

Russians For Philippines

Emigration Scheme Announced

SHANGHAI, Mar. 23 (Reuter).—A plan to settle 10,000 local Russian émigrés on Mindanao Island in the Philippines is being formulated in the Russian colony here, according to the "China Press."

A Russian resident in Manila, who arrived in Shanghai sometime ago, is reported to have returned to the Philippines to take up the matter privately with the Philippine Government.

Philippine officials are said to be favourably disposed to this plan, but it is pointed out that a special organisation should be formed and a detailed prospectus brought out before the project can officially be brought before the government.

REDS DECORATE WAR STAFF

MOSCOW, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—Decorations awarded to-day suggest that the Soviet campaign against Finland was conducted by a staff presided over by General Meretskov, Commander of the Leningrad military district, M. Kulik, Vice-Commissioner of Defence, and M. Tomoshenko, Political Vice-Commissioner of Defence.

General Grigori Stern, who was reported to have been put in Command of the Soviet forces in the later phases of the campaign, is not mentioned.

This suggests that General Stern never left the Command of the Soviet forces in the Far East.

The Latest Nazi Lie

Australians Alleged To Be Rioting

LONDON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—"Reuter" is authorised to state that despite the German radio claims, there have been no instances of rioting or quarrels between Australians and Arabs in the neighbourhood of Jerusalem and Jaffa.

On the contrary, the discipline of the troops has been admirable and relations with the Arabs have been excellent throughout.

Harrowing Stories

The German wireless has issued harrowing stories of alleged Australian excesses, including the assertion that an Australian had been court-martialled and condemned to death in order "to pacify the Arab population."

"Reuter" is informed in London to-day that there have been no sentences by any Australian courts-martial.

H.K. SUPPORT FOR SHAI EXCHANGE

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH" SHANGHAI, Mar. 21 (UP).—Financial circles here estimated that the Anglo-Chinese Stabilisation Committee in Hongkong sold at least half a million sterling for national currency on the Shanghai exchange markets to-day.

They said the Committee's sterling sales are responsible for the present steadiness and pointed out that the exporting season is at present at a low ebb, for which reason the Committee's participation in the market is necessary to maintain the rate.

NAZIS NEW MANOEUVRE

Note To Rumania Is Almost Ultimatum

BUCHAREST, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—According to circles close to the German Legation here, Germany has presented a note to Rumania amounting almost to an ultimatum.

The German note sharply attacks M. Christu, the new Rumanian Minister of Foreign Trade, for his part in shaping Rumania's recent economic policy.

Germany Annoyed

According to the Germans, it was promised during the previous trade talks that the Reichsmark fixed at 49.5 lei, the dollar would be maintained at 180 lei and other "hard" currencies at proportionate rates.

Germany is now annoyed because Rumania recently granted a 50 per cent. increase premium on "hard" currencies over the official rate thus, it is alleged, favouring Germany's trade rivals.

"Cannot Tolerate"

It is learned that the German note informs the Rumanian Government that Germany cannot tolerate a rule on which their Empire were built. He said that a diplomat was like a sentry, warning his fellow citizens of what he saw. "On this interpretation of my duties, I am content to risk my official head," he declared.

The latest system, introduced a few weeks ago, is severely criticised.

Tatarscu May Resign

It is suggested in these circles that the "ultimatum" may lead to the resignation of M. Tatarscu's government.

In that case, German circles hope that a new government will be formed under M. Valdevoevod.

Roosevelt's Appeal

Wants Wheat And Meat For Starving China

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH" WASHINGTON, Mar. 22 (UP).—President Roosevelt has forwarded an urgent appeal for cracked wheat and meat to alleviate the desperate food shortage in China.

One copy of the appeal was sent to the American Red Cross and another to the Church Committee for China Relief in New York.

The request for help was made through the Clarence Gaus, United States Consul in Shanghai by the American Advisory Committee for Civilian Relief in China.

Mr. Stephen Early, Secretary to the White House said: "The general nature of the appeal is that humanitarian forces and workers in this country should think of China as well as other nations requiring relief."

MR. HULL REPROVES

Sharp Telegram To Mr. James Cromwell

WASHINGTON, Mar. 22 (Reuter).—Mr. Cordell Hull, the U.S. Secretary of State, has telegraphed Mr. James R. Cromwell, the U.S. Minister to Canada, saying that his (Mr. Cromwell's) broadcast speech "contravened the standing instructions to American diplomatic officers."

Mr. Hull added: "Such public statements by our diplomatic representatives are likely to disturb the relations between this and other governments."

(The "United Press" earlier in the week reported that Mr. Cromwell, at a joint meeting of the Canadian Empire Clubs, criticised United States advocates of isolation and warned that Germany "frankly and openly seeks to destroy" the institutions of social and economic order on which the United States Government was founded. He took issue with the opinion of some of my very distinguished countrymen that a diplomat should confine his utterances to platitudinous pleasantness. He added: "Certain short-sighted, cynical groups in the United States declare that there is little to choose between one belligerent or another."

Like A Sentry

Mr. Cromwell declared that German-conquered people were nothing but slaves, while Britain and France continued the humanitarian rule on which their Empires were built. He said that a diplomat was like a sentry, warning his fellow citizens of what he saw. "On this interpretation of my duties, I am content to risk my official head," he declared.

REDUCING MADE HER FEEL FITTER

Lost 23 lbs. of Fat—Gained Health and Vigour

You sometimes hear a stout woman say: "I should like to reduce, but I'm sure it must be very weakening." You need have no fear of that if you reduce the Kruschen way. If you have any such doubts, read the following letter, which provides a complete answer:—

"I started taking Kruschen Salts over two years ago to reduce my weight. I then weighed 9 stones 9 lbs., and had a waist measurement of 36 ins. and a waist measurement of 27 ins. Seven months after starting the treatment, my weight was down to 8 stone, my bust measured 32 ins. and my waist 25 ins. I did no special exercises of any kind. I am still taking a small dose of Kruschen Salts in warm water every morning. My weight is keeping down well, and I have never felt fatter in my life."

—(Mrs.) C.C.N.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

BRENNER FRONTIER

Will Cause No More Controversy

ROME, Mar. 21 (Reuter).—"The Brenner frontier will never again cause controversy between Italy and Germany," declared Signor Mussolini in a speech here to-day to a delegation of German-speaking people from the Alto Adige (South Tyrol) who voted for Italian citizenship in the recent plebiscite.

Il Duce said the "logical result of historic events, such as the visit of the German Chancellor to Rome and the definite words spoken by him on the occasion of this memorable occasion—words which were a further consecration of the Italo-German Pact and alliance."

NEW TRADE PACT

Air Secrets Of Three Nations

WAR BRINGS FILLIP TO DESIGNS OF AIRCRAFT

THE GREAT WAR of 1914-18 is said to have advanced the design of aircraft by at least half-a-century.
Below are three reports, from three countries, of what is happening as a result of the current European War.

BRITAIN'S SECRET

The Lion Has Teeth As Well As Wings

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, March 21 (UP).—The Under Secretary for Air, Captain Balfour in a speech to-day for the first time officially disclosed that British planes are using cannon with which they have already brought down many enemy planes.
"It has been stated that German planes have the advantage over us since they are armed with cannon while we have only machine guns. I can tell you that our fighters are already equipped with a cannon gun which has contributed to the destruction of some enemy machines," he declared.
He emphasized that it is impossible to prevent enemy air raids from striking swiftly but Britain was capable of swift retribution.
"The Spitfire shows that the Lion has teeth as well as wings," he said.

ATTACK ON CONVOY

referred to as having failed to return by the German High Command.
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Mar. 21 (UP).—The Admiralty to-day sarcastically commented: "The German claims to having sunk 42,000 tons of convoys ships is 42,000 tons in excess of actual facts."
The announcement said that three neutral ships damaged in a convoy on Wednesday night off the north coast. They included the Norwegian vessel Erlingdalen, which has since arrived safely in harbour.
It also denied that the convoy was dispersed but asserted that it is proceeding on its way with none of the escort ships damaged and no ships sunk. One German raider was destroyed and others were hit by naval aircraft.

The Danish ships Borthal (3,000 tons) and Viking (1,500 tons) were sunk by U-boat torpedoes off the east coast of Scotland, but they were not in a convoy, the announcement said. The steamer Barnhill (5,430 tons) which was bombed and set afire, is now safe with some casualties aboard.
The Barnhill is skippered by "Potato Jones" the captain famed for running the Bilbao blockade.

Another Neutral Attacked
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Mar. 22 (UP).—The crew of the Norwegian steamer Torra Elise (721 tons) returned to a north Scottish port to-day and reported that three Norwegian members of the crew were killed and Captain Symon wounded on Wednesday when ten German planes attacked their convoy.

German Claim
SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, Mar. 22 (UP).—The German High Command to-day announced "In three days 32,000 tons of shipping useful to the enemy has been sunk."

AMERICA'S SECRET

Super Plane Twice Size Of 1938 Type

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
WASHINGTON, March 22 (UP).—The Army Department announces that the Douglas Aircraft Corporation is building for it a 70-ton four-engined super-bombing plane capable of flying to Europe with 28 bombs and to return non-stop.
The plane will be completed and delivered this year.
It will be the largest plane in the world, more than double the size of the flying fortresses and it is being built under the greatest secrecy.

The Army Department said the plans for it were stolen once last year but the Federal Bureau of Investigation quickly recovered them.
The plane will cost a million dollars. It will have a wing spread of 210 feet and a cruising radius of 6,000 miles non-stop.
Its four engines will deliver 6,000 H.P. and its speed is understood to be "considerably in excess of 200 miles per hour."
A crew of ten will have heated cabins and sleeping quarters.

German Internees

La Salle College Inmates May Be Sent Elsewhere

That a proposal had been made to send the German internees in the La Salle College camp elsewhere, was disclosed by the Hon. Mr. N. L. Smith, Colonial Secretary, yesterday when approached to confirm a rumour that the inmates of the camp were being sent to Australia on Tuesday.
The Colonial Secretary stated that there was definitely no truth in the rumour, that the internees, together with their wives, were being sent to Australia on Tuesday, but he said that a proposal had been made that they be sent away. However, no decision has yet been reached by Government.

CHANGE OF OFFICES

It is notified for general information that Government Medical Headquarters will be closed for ordinary business during transfer to the National City Bank Building on March 23, and only enquiries and correspondence of an extremely urgent nature will be dealt with on the 20th.
On and after March 23, the address of Medical Headquarters will be "The National City Bank of New York Building, 2, Queen's Road, Central." The telephone number of the sub-exchange will be 31128.
It is understood that more room in the Post Office is required for censors and other war departments.

GOERING'S SECRET

He Doesn't Want To Be Left Out

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
BERLIN, Mar. 21 (UP).—Germany is building a large proportion of her famous Messerschmidt pursuit planes at a vast factory in the south-eastern corner of the Reich which is regarded as being very safe from air attack.
So little chance in fact do the Germans believe that enemy raiders would have in getting through with a cargo of bombs that, apart from a few machine-guns, the factory is not equipped at all against air attack.
In addition to the Messerschmidt a new, and so far still secret, machine whereof nothing has yet been revealed is also being built there.

The factory is at a town called Wiener Neustadt, thirty miles south of Vienna and only ten miles from the Hungarian frontier.
This "United Press" correspondent was one of the first party of foreign newspapermen ever permitted to visit this or any other Messerschmidt factory to see the planes—until recently one of the most jealously guarded military secrets—actually in production.

Mystery Nazi Plane

SPECIAL TO THE "TELEGRAPH"
LONDON, Mar. 21 (UP).—German planes were sighted off the south coast of England last night.
One German bomber acted very mysteriously. She dropped white and orange coloured flares at different intervals. Also she fired red, green and grey lights repeatedly and switched off her own navigation lights.
The mysterious aircraft attracted the attention of watchers along miles of shore.

All the ships, with the exception of the Charlow, were torpedoed without warning by U-boats. Their crews were left to their fate.
Some 40 Danish seamen lost their lives.

DEPORTED, RETURNED IN KHAKI, JAILED

EXPELLED to Eire, Victor Barr, aged 23, went to Belfast, joined the Army, and returned to England as a soldier on leave.
At Birmingham he was sent to prison for one month for breaking the expulsion order.
In making the order the Home Secretary was satisfied that Barr was dangerous owing to his political views, the prosecution stated.
His uniform made it easier for him to enter England.
The Army did not wish to retain his services.

Detested I.R.A.

Mr. J. Silberman, defending, said Barr assured him he did not know when the expulsion order was made. He was never associated with the I.R.A., and detested their views and outrages.
Barr came to Birmingham to spend his leave with a brother in the B.E.F. He thought that, since he had taken the oath on joining the Army, the expulsion order was washed out.

O'DWYER MURDER CASE

London, Mar. 21.
Udham Singh, accused of the murder of Sir Michael O'Dwyer, was further remanded at Bow Street Police Court to-day after eyewitnesses had described the shooting.
The prosecution alleged that the shots which killed Sir Michael were fired within a distance of nine inches.

Allies To Recognise New "Vienna" In London EXILES OF AUSTRIA FORM GOVERNMENT

WITHIN a day or two Austria's exile Government will announce its constitution in London.

Recognition by the British and French Governments of this representative body of anti-Hitler Austrians will follow.

Just as the Czechs, under Dr. Benes' leadership, have formed a Czech Committee which has won diplomatic recognition, so the "Austrian Office"—its official title—will represent free Austria before the world.

Prominent figures in Austria's public life have been working to create this representative body since the day when Nazi troops marched into and enslaved their Fatherland.

There were, however, many difficulties to overcome. When democrats go into exile they take with them, not only their patriotism but also their political convictions. The promoters of the Exile Government had to co-ordinate all sections of Austrian opinion into one powerful organised anti-Hitler body.

All Parties In

Now the collaboration of members of all the former Austrian parties—Nazi and Communist excluded—has been secured.

The driving force behind the movement which will now take form in a diplomatic entity is three Austrian personalities. They are: Count Hans Hupf, formerly Press attaché to the Austrian Legation in London;

Dr. Schueller, ex-Minister, leading economist and representative of many Austrian Governments at international conferences; and Herr Heinrich Allina, trade union chief, Socialist deputy in the last Austrian Parliament.

There are also former leading Austrian journalists, men of science and politicians among the founders of the "Austrian Office."

The liberation of Austria from Hitler's yoke is the principal task which these men have set themselves.

All their resources, inside and outside Austria, will be placed at the disposal of the Allied Government in their fight against Hitler.

Worker's V.C. For Two Rescuers

ARTHUR SOFFE, non-swimmer, fell into the dock at Southampton. He was wearing heavy clothes and would have been drowned but for George Albert Deutz.

Deutz jumped 35 feet from the bridge deck of a ship into the water and saved Soffe.

Sidney Pearce, who works at a yacht and at Southampton, also owes his life to a fellow employee.

He fell into the water during a blackout.

Eljah Bowers went to his rescue. In the darkness, he dived in and brought Pearce to safety.

Before a gathering of Southampton port workers, these two rescuers received the "Daily Herald" Order of Industrial Merit. They also had handed to them wallets of notes.

"Industry has its heroes no less than war," said Mr. J. W. Stephenson, President of the National Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Unions, who made the presentations.

"The acts which we are acknowledging, typify the soul of the Trade Union Movement."

He also presented canteens of cutlery to William Hatch and Ernest Sewell, members of the Transport and General Workers' Union.

These were the gifts from their fellow workers in recognition of their attempt to save the life of another trade unionist, Mr. A. H. Butler, who fell into the dock during a blackout.

They were lowered into the water by ropes and brought Butler ashore, but he died before reaching hospital.

HE HOOTED FOR HIS SUPPER

Little Tommy Tucker, you'll remember, sang for his supper.

A Polkestone business man sounded his car horn for him.

He was driving home when he met a bevy of ducks.

He gave them the right of way, but one lingered behind in the middle of the road.

The motorist sounded his horn, whereupon the duck laid an egg.

And the motorist had it for supper!

NAZIS SEND REPORTERS ON RAIDS

One Was Glad To Get Back

APPARENTLY the Germans are sending reporters out with their raiding bombers.

From time to time these men, who are marshalled in special propaganda companies, describe a raid in the columns of German newspapers.

One of them wrote recently of a visit by two Heinkels III. to the Thames Estuary that it "stinks of anti-aircraft defences and fighter craft."

His story states: "Suddenly the machine-gunner shouted 'Fighter! Our pilot plunged down close to the water and put on speed. Bravo! The chaps had been shaken off. The mist over the water had swallowed us.'"

A second reporter was with a squadron sent to attack an armed convoy off the Scottish coast. Before they could do anything British fighters were attacking them. One of the German aircraft was hit immediately. Soon a volley put one engine of the reporters' airplane out of action.

The Germans drew away, with the reporter's airplane losing petrol. He was glad to get back.

Eventually, he states, "there came a shout of joy—the home port was in sight."

Sandbag Pet's Grave

"Carlo, my good dog and dearest friend. Died February 14, 1935," is the inscription on a stone which marks a grave in a pet's cemetery in Woolwich, London, S.E.

Occasionally a woman visited the grave and placed flowers upon it.

Now, on her instructions, a sandbag has been placed on the grave to protect it during air raids.

LATE NEWS

LYNDHURST TCE. COLLAPSE

The blast of several police whistles in the vicinity of Lyndhurst Terrace this morning heralded a house collapse at which it is feared several Chinese women and children have been seriously injured.

About 9.45 a.m. the rear portion of No. 42 Lyndhurst Terrace, bordering on Cochrane Street, collapsed with a groaning of timbers and the whole, comprising two floors and a portion of the roof including the chimney, crashed through two floors into the kitchen basement, burying everybody underneath.

When the Fire Brigade arrived they found the debris piled about eight feet high and lying across the pavement in Cochrane Street. But up to the time of going to press, no bodies had yet been recovered. Mr. Fitzgerald, was directing operations. Nos. 40 and 42 Lyndhurst Terrace were evacuated at 10.10 a.m. on the orders of the Fire Chief.

An old woman, who is believed to have fallen down with the debris from the third floor, and another small girl were injured. They were sent to the Queen Mary Hospital for treatment. It is feared that at least one other person is buried under the bricks and masonry.

Sergeant Weare was fortunate to escape being buried under the fall, as he passed the street about 30 seconds after the crash. He actually turned round, and saw the old woman drop down from the top floor.

Yip Sang, owner of a sweets stall at the mouth of Tong War Lane, lost everything when his stall was buried by the crash.

Man Alive In Tomb Of Debris

After being buried alive in the debris of 42 Lyndhurst Terrace for an hour, police and firemen who are clearing away the ruins of the rear of the building came across the body of an unknown man at 11.15 a.m.

As this edition went to press only the hands of the buried victim were visible below the ruins. But the man is still alive and frantic efforts are now being made to release him from his living tomb.

GREEK SHIP IN DIFFICULTIES

Finding herself in difficulties when entering Hongkong Harbour yesterday, the Greek steamer Valentine called for assistance as she was at one time believed to be in danger of going ashore.

The Talkoo tug went out and met the vessel at Waiglan and led her into the harbour.

The Valentine received a buffeting in rough weather and is at present lying off the Talkoo Docks awaiting instructions regarding an examination.

The vessel's agents are in Japan.

Cripps In Colony

Sir Stafford Cripps returned to Hongkong yesterday after visiting North China and Japan. He is believed to be returning to England on Monday.

During his stay in the Colony Sir Stafford will again be the guest of His Excellency and Lady Northcote at Government House.

Since leaving England, Sir Stafford has extensively toured the Far East. His tour has included a visit by plane to Sinkiang, the Chinese province bordering Soviet Russia.

Dispute Over Marking Of New Border

Stockholm, Mar. 21.
The Moscow correspondent of the Tidningen states that the Russians have extended their demands in Finland.

At the first meeting between Soviet authorities and the Finnish delegation in Moscow for ratification of the peace treaty, the Russians made it clear that the frontiers they proposed would in certain places be further west than has been expected. The Finns realise they can do nothing but comply.

M. Molotov, Soviet Foreign Minister, is expected to visit Berlin at Easter.—Reuter.

New Finn Frontier

Helsingfors, Mar. 21.
A barricade of poles has been erected by the Finns to define the new frontier on the Viborg Road and the Red Army troops have halted some 200 feet away. Finnish troops are proceeding to occupy the new frontier posts.

A special correspondent says that on returning from the new eastern frontier he saw the road blocked at times by streams of refugees.—Reuter.
